

NOLAN CENTRAL APPRAISAL DISTRICT

PROPERTY TAX CALENDAR & IMPORTANT DATES

A quick guide to important Texas property tax deadlines

JANUARY 1	Property values and most exemption qualifications are determined as of this date.
JANUARY 31	Last day to pay most property tax bills without penalty and interest.
FEBRUARY 1	Unpaid taxes generally become delinquent; penalty and interest begin.
APRIL 15	Deadline to file most business personal property renditions. A written extension request generally moves the deadline to May 15.
APRIL 30	Deadline for many exemption and agricultural special appraisal applications. Some exemptions, including residence homestead exemptions, have different filing rules.
APRIL-MAY	Notices of appraised value are mailed when required. Review your notice carefully.
MAY 15*	Usual deadline to file an appraisal protest, or 30 days after the notice of appraised value is delivered, whichever is later.
MAY-JULY	Appraisal Review Board (ARB) conducts hearings on property owner protests.
JULY 25	Chief appraiser generally certifies appraisal rolls to taxing units.
AUG.-SEPT.	Local taxing units consider and adopt property tax rates.
OCTOBER	Property tax bills are generally mailed beginning October 1.
NOVEMBER 30	Deadline for the first half-payment if eligible for the split-payment option.
DECEMBER 31	A good time to confirm mailing address, ownership, and exemption information for the coming year.

IMPORTANT REMINDERS

- The appraisal district determines property values and administers exemptions. Local taxing units set tax rates; the tax office collects payments.
- *Protest deadlines may vary. Always check the deadline printed on your appraisal notice.
- When a legal deadline falls on a weekend or qualifying holiday, it generally moves to the next business day. Other exceptions and special deadlines may apply.

Official Texas property tax deadlines: comptroller.texas.gov/taxes/property-tax/calendars/deadlines.php